How old is your Server??

In one of the fastest moving industries there is, Servers often become out of date rather quickly and the need for new parts, memory or hard-disks, or new software becomes paramount to the running of a fast and efficient system.

If your Server is over 5 years old it may have been declared by the manufacturer to be either obsolete and/or that Microsoft no longer supports the operating system installed.

Spares from third party stockists, may also be hard to find.

You would greatly benefit from the stability, security, increased processing power and storage space a new server would bring.
